RDO Equipment Co. has been partnering with colleges and universities to hire talented students since the early 90's. In 2003 the Access Your Future Service program was created. Due to the success of our Access Your Future Service program graduates and the growth of our organization, we are pleased to extend the Access Your Future program to include a sales path.

There are two paths in the Access Your Future Sales Program:

Sales Internship path – To be considered for the Sales Internship path, the student must currently be enrolled in college and available to complete a summer internship following the completion of his or her junior year. The summer internship will provide the student with a basic understanding of how a dealership operates by spending 8 - 12 weeks in the sponsoring dealership. The internship will serve as a part-time position before the start of their senior year. After successful completion of the summer internship and college graduation, management can offer full time employment and the student can begin the Sales Trainee program.

Sales Trainee Path – To be considered for the Sales Trainee path, the student must be a graduating college senior. The student will apply for a full time Sales Trainee position. After completing the training program, management will discuss sales opportunities with the Sales Trainee, and then he or she is able to transfer into a role that is best suited for his or her background and experience.
