

COLLEGE AND DEPARTMENT RESTRICTIONS ON DOUBLE DIPPING

5/27/2014

The only University-wide policy prohibiting the double use of courses is the General Education policy limiting double dipping between General Education requirements and the major and/or minor (see the 2013 Catalog: <http://catalog.arizona.edu/2014-15/policies/doubledip.htm> and http://catalog.arizona.edu/2014-15/policies/double_use.htm). In addition, some colleges, schools, and departments do not allow double dipping between their major and a second major, between their major and a minor, between their minor and a major, or between their minor and a second minor.

The following colleges, schools, and departments ask advisors to honor their restrictions when making course adjustments in majors/minors and when approving students' degree programs—even if the advisor's home department/college does not prohibit double use of their courses.

COLLEGES THAT RESTRICT DOUBLE USE OF COURSES:

College of Agriculture and Life Sciences—double use of courses varies by department. Students should contact their department advisors for information regarding double-dipping restrictions on major and minor requirements.

Nutritional Sciences—no more than 9 units of the 18 units for the Nutrition Option/ Emphasis electives may be applied toward another degree requirement.

Soil, Water, and Environmental Science—requires a minimum of 9 unique units in each of these minors: Environmental Sciences, Soil & Water Science.

College of Education Programs:

Special Education & Rehabilitation--does not permit courses used in the Rehabilitation Option or Deaf Studies Option to be used elsewhere in the same degree program.

Literacy, Learning and Leadership--does not permit the double use of courses used for the major with any other major, minor or degree. There is one exception--courses used for the major may be used in a Thematic Minor for a second degree.

College of Fine Arts—does not permit double use of CFA courses to fulfill any of the requirements for another major or degree, including General Education, major, minor, or IDST subject area. One exception: unique units of CFA course work (i.e., units not used to complete any aspect of another degree program) may be used in a Thematic Minor created under the supervision of the student's major academic advisor.

College of Humanities Departments:

Classics—does not permit double use of courses in its major (with options in Classical Civilization, Greek, Latin) with another major (within Humanities or outside of the college), nor double use of courses in one of its minors (Classics, Greek, Latin) with any major or second minor.

Spanish and Portuguese--does not allow double use of courses from the Spanish Major, Spanish Minor, or Portuguese Minor with another major or minor. Exceptions: (1) Second degree students MAY use courses from the Spanish Major towards a Spanish Minor in the second degree; (2) Spanish Major or Minor courses MAY also apply towards the Global Studies Major, with approval by the Global Studies Advisor; (3) Other exceptions must be approved by the Department Head.

Colleges of Letters, Arts and Science:

General Studies, Bachelor of – does not permit double use of courses in the 3 concentrations or focus area comprising the major, with a second major or a minor.

Pre-Health Thematic Minor—does not permit double use of courses used in the minor with a major or a second minor within the degree program.

Interdisciplinary Studies Major—does not permit double use of courses in the 3 subject areas with a second major or a minor.

Pre-Law Thematic Minor—does not permit double use of courses used in the minor with a foundations course, a major, or a second minor.

Eller College of Management--does not permit double use of courses in their majors with majors or minors outside of the college, nor double use of courses in their minors with majors outside of the college. Unique units are required for the student's major and minor. One exception: Students who complete a second degree MAY use courses from their first degree (from the Eller College major) in the Business Administration Minor for their second degree from another college.

College of Medicine, Physiology Program—does not permit double use of courses in the major with a minor. Courses used in the major MAY be applied toward a second major.

College of Science Departments and Schools:

Chemistry—requires the minor to have 6 unique units that are not used to satisfy any other major or minor.

Computer Science—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor. Only one course (3-4 units) from a Computer Science Minor may be double-dipped with another major or minor.

Ecology & Evolutionary Biology—does not permit double use of upper-division courses in its majors (BIOL, ECOL, GBIO) with a minor; will allow departmental core courses (MCB 181R/L, ECOL 182R/L, 302, 320, 335) ONLY in their major to be used with another major.

Mathematics—does not allow double use of courses in the Math Major with a minor, with the exception of the introductory computer programming course, which may also be used in a minor. Double use of courses between the Math Major or Math Minor and another major is permitted, provided the other major does not restrict double dipping.

Molecular & Cellular Biology--does not permit double use of courses in its major with a minor, with the exception of MCB 181R/L and ECOL 182R/L; will allow courses in its major to be used with another major. Double use of courses between the MCB Minor and another major is not permitted, with the exception of the same two introductory courses.

Psychology—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors. Exceptions: Second degree students MAY use Psychology courses from their first degree (PSYC Major) towards a PSYC Minor in the second degree; (2) Double major students MAY use PSYC Major courses in the pre-major or support-science section of their second major.

College of Social & Behavioral Sciences Departments and Schools:

Anthropology—allows ANTH Majors with a second major to double-dip up to 6 ANTH units with the second major, as long as the courses are cross-listed in both majors and the double use is acceptable with the other major advisor. Double use of courses between the ANTH Major and a minor in the same degree is NOT permitted.

Communication—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors (within SBS or outside the college).

Economics—students may complete one of the following: ECON 200; ECON 201A & B; ECON 210. If more than one of these options is completed (at the UA or at another institution), the corresponding number of units will NOT count toward the student's UA degree. These courses CANNOT be used for both the ECON Major and the GBUS Minor (see the College of Management note).

English and Creative Writing—do not permit double use of courses in these majors with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in these minors with any other majors or second minors. Exceptions: (1) Second degree students MAY use English courses from the first Creative Writing or English Major towards an ENGL or CRTV Minor in the second degree; (2) Students with a double major in English and Creative Writing may double count 9 units between the two majors.

Gender and Women's Studies—does not permit double use of courses between its major and a minor; double dipping is allowed between double majors or between majors in two degrees.

Geography and Development— does permit the double use of up to 6 units of GEOG courses in its majors—Environmental Studies, Geography, or Regional Development—with a second major. Second degree students may use GEOG courses from their first degree (Environmental Studies, Geography, or Regional Development Majors) toward an Environmental Studies, Geography, or Regional Development Minor in the second degree.

Government/Public Policy (SPGG)—Double use of courses in one of its majors—Political Science, Public Management & Policy, Criminal Justice Studies, and Law—is not permitted in other majors, minors or degrees except in the following circumstances:

- For Fall 2011 and later catalogs, students pursuing a double degree within SGPP are permitted to double dip the core courses (POL 201, POL/PA 206, ECON 200, POL 202, POL 203, POL 204, SGPP 300A, SGPP 300B) between the two degree programs: BA-POL and BS-PMPC, BS-Criminal Justice, and BA-Law.
- Students completing ECON 200 for a minor or other major outside of SGPP may also use the course in the POL, PMPC, CJS, or Law major.
- POL 200 or another approved statistics course that meets the Foundations-Math requirement may also be used in the POL, PMPC, CJS, or Law Major.
- For the Foreign Affairs Concentration in a POL Major, double use of the 5th and 6th semester language course(s) is permitted between the major and a second major/minor.

- Students who complete a double degree may use courses from their POL, PMPC, CJS, or Law Major in the Government & Public Policy Minor for their second degree.
- Students who complete a double major in PMPC and CJS are permitted to double dip PA 330, 410 and 470 for both majors.

History—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or with a minor.

Information Resources & Library Science—The eSociety Program permits the double use of up to 6 units of any course work in the eSociety Major or Minor with another major/minor, as long as this double use is approved by the department offering the other major/minor.

Journalism—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor in the first degree. The double use of Journalism courses is allowed in majors or minors within second degrees.

Judaic Studies—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors (within SBS or outside the college).

Latin American Studies—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors (within SBS or outside the college).

Linguistics—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors (within SBS or outside the college).

Mexican American Studies--does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors (within SBS or outside the college).

Middle Eastern/North African Studies—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minor (within SBS or outside the college).

Philosophy—permits up to 6 units from the PHIL Major to double dip with a second major, as long as the courses are cross-listed in both majors and the double use is acceptable with the other major advisor. Double use of courses between the PHIL Major and a minor in the same or a second degree is not permitted.

Sociology—does not permit double use of courses in its major with another major or minor, nor double use of courses in its minor with any other majors or second minors (within SBS or outside the college). Exception: Second degree students may use SOC courses from their SOC Major toward a SOC Minor in the second degree.

UA South:

Human Services Minor—does not permit double use of courses with the Family Studies Major; students must make up for inadvertent double use by taking additional Human Services elective credits. Second degree students MAY use Human Services courses from their first degree (Applied Science Major) towards a Human Services Minor in the second degree.

Intelligence Studies Minor—does not permit double use of courses with the Government & Public Service Major; students must make up for inadvertent double use by taking additional Intelligence Studies or Government & Public Service elective credits. Second degree students MAY use Intelligence Studies courses from their first degree (Applied Science Major) towards an Intelligence Studies Minor in the second degree.

This is a list in progress! If a department establishes a policy on the double use of courses, it will be added to the list. Contact Celeste Pardee, Curricular Affairs (621-5375 or cpardee@u.arizona.edu) for any corrections, additions, or clarification in the way restrictions are applied.
