

Faculty Affairs

Delphi Award Speaker Series

Highlighting Innovations in Teaching and Support for Career-Track Faculty – Sponsored by the Delphi Award

All are welcomed at this speaker series

The University of Arizona was honored as a 2023 Delphi Award winner for its transformative support of Career-Track faculty. This speaker series, made possible by the Delphi Award, is a collaborative effort between the U of A Career-Track faculty working group and Faculty Affairs. We aim to share insights and best practices for teaching and supporting career-track faculty.

Transformative Support for Career-Track Faculty

Dr. Jordan Harper

Research Associate, Delphi Project, Pullias Center for Higher Education & Assistant Professor, Higher Education & Student Affairs, Advanced Studies, Leadership & Policy

Morgan State University

November 6, 2024
12-1pm

Recording available

Celebrating the Career-Track Faculty Model Success: Insights from the Delphi Award

Susan Holland

Associate Professor of Practice

Kristin Little

Principal Lecturer

Dr. Bill Neumann

Professor of Practice

Romi Wittman

Associate Professor of Practice

Carolyn Casertano

Professor of Practice

University of Arizona

December 3, 2024
12:30-1:30pm
Recording available

Recording available

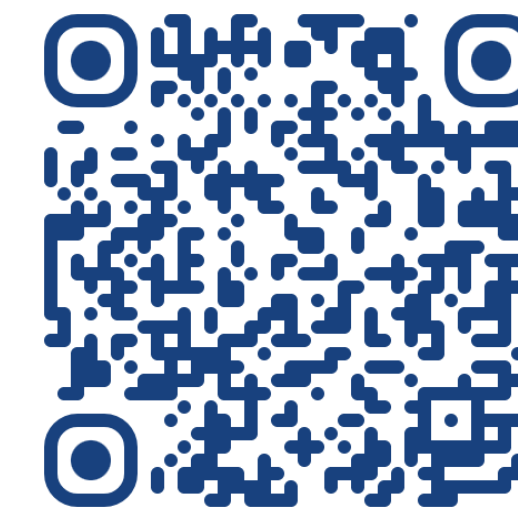

Innovative Faculty Approaches to Supporting Students' Mental Health, Emotion, and Learning

Dr. Sarah Rose Cavanagh

Senior Associate Director for Teaching & Learning, Center for Faculty Excellence | Associate Professor of Practice, Psychology

Simmons University

January 22, 2025
12-1pm
Recording available

Recording available

Innovations in Technology for Effective Teaching: Minds Online

Dr. Michelle Denise Miller

Professor, Psychological Sciences

Northern Arizona University

President's Distinguished Teaching Fellow

April 2, 2025
12-1pm
In-person
U of A Main Library, Room 112 Learning Studio

Registration