THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

Free!

Geospatial Data Carpentry Workshop

Scientific Computing Skills in R

This is a free, hands-on, data science workshop for graduate students, postdocs, faculty and staff. This 2-day workshop targets novice users. Acquire the skills necessary for analyses and mapping in R!

Questions? Contact Tyson Swetnam (tswetnam@cyverse.org) or Erica Newman (newmane@email.arizona.edu)

Saturday/Sunday
Nov. 10 and 11, 2018

8:30 am - 5:00 pm

ILC Library Room 112

University of Arizona

Tucson, AZ

Limited space – RSVP required
Register online at:
tinyurl.com/geospatialR

Skill level:
- The workshop targets novice users
- No previous experience with R required

Learn how to:
- Conduct basic data analyses in R
- Work with vector and raster data in R
- Plot data and create reproducible analyses

University Libraries | CYVERSE | THE CARPENTRIES | BIO5 Institute