

2012 UA at the Leading Edge Recognition

UA at the Leading Edge recognizes annually selected University of Arizona researchers or research projects in recognition of early stage technologies with the potential for commercialization.

Purpose of Recognition

The purpose of UA at the Leading Edge is to provide the opportunity for the entrepreneurial community and especially the capital community to “preview” new technologies in development inside UA laboratories and for the University and public communities to recognize and encourage such work. Honorees will have demonstrated original and innovative research and may or may not have started the process of disclosure or patent or registration process.

Nomination Procedure

Nominations may be submitted by any current UA faculty or staff on behalf of the nominee(s) and/or their team; self-nominations are also accepted. Nominations should utilize the enclosed nomination form.

Up to five honorees of UA at the Leading Edge will be highlighted annually during Innovation Day at the UA.
