

Internship Announcement

Carlton Plants is a wholesale grower specializing in bareroot trees (shade, ornamental, and fruit), ornamental shrubs, and rootstocks. We are excited to announce our Internship Program for 2012. The program is designed to provide professional education and hands on experience to college students. This is paid, on the job training that includes exposure to all phases of bareroot production - from the tissue culture lab and greenhouse, to the field, and eventually to the customer.

Northwest Oregon is a wonderful place to spend a summer and provides a unique opportunity to apply the knowledge gleaned from the classroom. Weekends may be used to enjoy the fabulous recreational activities throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Carlton Plants has been growing in the Willamette Valley of Oregon for over 100 years. The nursery now consists of over 1,800 acres of bareroot fields and approximately 8 acres of propagation facilities. We are eager to share our many years of experience and knowledge with domestic and international students alike. These internships will be most applicable to students in Horticulture, Botany, Plant Pathology, Crop and Soil Science, and Agriculture Education majors.
