

Happy Holidays! As we reach the end of 2014, we offer appreciation for your efforts in supporting the Rangelands Partnership. Our collective work continues to inform public debate and decision-making regarding today's grand challenges of food security, climate adaptation, public health, environmental impacts, and economic development as they relate to rangelands around the globe.

From all of us at the Rangelands Partnership, we wish each of you a Happy Holiday season wherever you may be, and we hope to see you at the 2015 partnership meeting 22-24 March in Las Cruces, New Mexico.
